

*RATS ran a mock at a Cobham school as the junior department held its annual drama production. Pupils at Feltonfleet School took to the stage in Rats, a musical version of The Pied Piper of Hamelin. Year 3 teacher and producer of the show David Pearce said: "All 90 children in the junior department took part in the production — which is very much in keeping with the school's inclusive ethos — and they performed brilliantly. Their parents and teachers should be very proud." The music department at the school provided the vibrant live music and the show was enjoyed by all who attended, including visitors from Whiteley Village.
