

Thirteen pupils from Feltonfleet School, Cobham, performed Lord of the Flies at the Edinburgh Fringe in its third year at the Fringe and third successive sell-out run. The young actors and actresses, aged 12 and 13, staged six performances to packed houses and standing ovations. The show garnered critical praise including a five star review from Edinburgh journalist Alison Fraser who said the production was "a powerful and captivating ride... fresh, breathtaking and extremely impressive". BroadwayBaby, the internet review site, called it "moving and shocking".
