

Going green for charity

GREEN was the theme as children at a Cobham school raised money for the Mango Tree Trust.

Pupils at Feltonfleet School (above) pulled on their best green outfits as they held a mufti day in aid of the charity. Children who board at the school were the only ones not to pull on green, wearing their pyjamas and receiving breakfast in bed.

Based in Tanzania, the Mango Tree Trust is a charity that helps children orphaned by Aids.

The day raised £539.06.